GIANT STEP

Hello to you on this road of life, you seem to be going my way.

How hard has it been for you my friend to walk this far today?

Rest your burden a little while and sit beside me here.

Tho a stranger I appear to you please do not have fear.

The path that you and I must take are very much the same.

Wanting to meet you at this time of life,
through galaxies of stars I came.

Your world is awakening from a deep, deep sleep, your thoughts are confused and new.

Our path is under a rainbow bridge. May I walk with you?

Awake I've been for many a year. I was up before the dawn.

I saw your world go to sleep and watched its awakening yawn.

The rainbow bridge lies just ahead where your rockets soar through the sky.

Beyond that bridge are men like you and a man from there am I.

Rockets are not my way but a silver disc of light.

It matters not of such things, for we're equal in God's sight.

Let us please go hand and hand across God's starry road.
Place your burden in my silver disc, it will carry your load.

Step by step we will go on a journey far beyond Mars.
Let us take these steps together, they'll be Giant Steps into the Stars.

That which quickens the spirit has no man as author.

Special Note

Any particular subject addressed in these writings could be presented in much greater detail.

It is our intention to provide what we feel is the most obvious evidence that supports the reality of the subjects in question, and which also presents a clear picture as to how these subjects are related to each other. In other words we will try to keep our presentation as simple as possible.

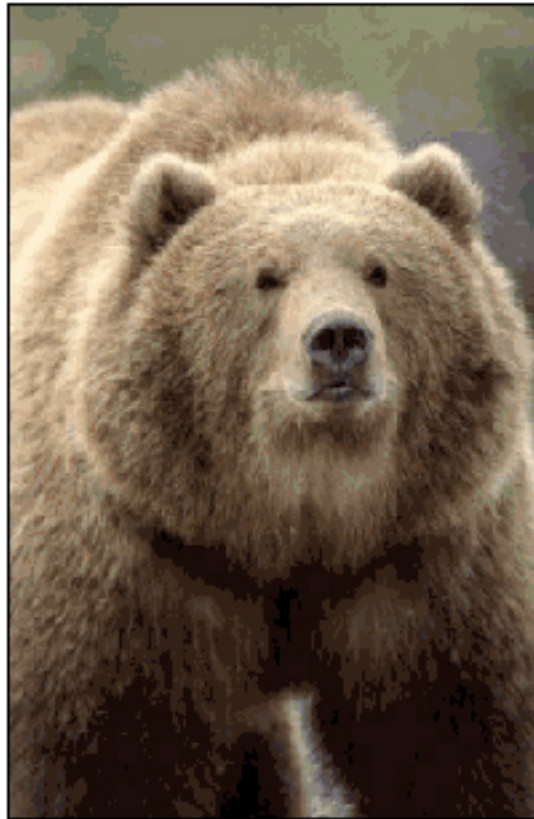

At certain points in the course of this writing it may become necessary to introduce certain things the reader must give time and consideration too. It is our hope that the basic data we have previously presented will make it easier to comprehend and accept these new subjects.

ANIMALS, EARTHQUAKES AND THE FREQUENCY BARRIER

Just prior to an earthquake micro vibrations occur in the earth, which in turn cause micro vibrations in turn cause “ripples” in the Frequency Barrier. Many types of animals sense and react to these ripples and accept them as a warning.

It was reported that before the “Good Friday” earthquake of 1965, something awoke and inspired the Kodiak Bears to leave their places of hibernation and aimlessly move about.

Reports from zoos around the world told of animals of all species becoming highly agitated just before this same Alaskan quake of 1965.

During March of 1965 numerous UFO sightings occurred, such as the Ann Arbor - Hillsdale, Michigan sightings of the 21st. and 22nd.

Ripples in the Frequency Barrier also cause reptiles such as snakes to leave their winter, hibernation only to freeze to death on the ice.

Horses also become disturbed prior to a quake. They usually run about in a frenzied, manner and kick while in their stalls.

Just prior to the San Francisco earthquake of October 1989, female, bullfrogs which rarely croak were observed swimming in circles and croaking again and again for hours.

Before an earthquake is about to occur female shrimp will leave the ocean and deposit their eggs on dry land.

Micro vibrations in the ocean's floor that indicate that an earthquake is about to happen cause very tiny organisms to become dislodged and rise in the water. Fish that gather to feed on these organisms are then caught in abundance by fisherman. Japanese fisherman were the first to recognize that when they had a good catch an earthquake was about to happen.

Elephants in Sumatra and Indonesia took off to the highest ground available just before the deep ocean quake and ensuing tsunami on December 26, 2005, a fact which the news media brought to the attention of the world.

It is believed that elephants sense micro vibrations that cause Frequency Barrier ripples through their feet. Alligators and whales are also known to have this same degree of sensitivity.

The Chinese government takes abnormal behavior of farm animals seriously. They continuously remind farmers to report strange behavior of their livestock, because they are certain that such behavior is a sign that an earthquake is about to happen.

There was a case in the 1960s where reports of farm animals acting strangely prompted the Chinese government to move a very large population of their people from a city where a large earthquake occurred. This action saved thousands of lives.

ANIMALS and REEVOLUTION

Most recent observations of some species of animals show unique changes in their behavior. This suggests that they too are becoming less affected mentally because of the diminishment of the Frequency Barrier.

Orcas (killer whales) have been recently filmed teaching their young how to produce waves that rock ice flows upon which a seal (a food source) had taken refuge. The waves cause the seal to slide off the flow into the water where it of course could be captured. The parent whales use the seal as a teaching aid by putting it back on the flow and rocking it off over and over, until the calves get the picture.

Most people are aware that dolphins and porpoises are intelligent creatures that are able to communicate with each other by making sounds.

Recently a female dolphin was photographed off the coast of Australia, wearing a sponge on her nose. The creature was using the sponge to protect her nose while she used it to turn up food from under the sandy ocean bottom. It was also reported that this dolphin genius was teaching her young to do the same thing.

Evolving ? No. Re-evolving? Yes!

Extraterrestrials, Sumerians and Dolphins

The illustration above depicts a reproduction of figures that are found on a clay cylinder originally produced in the ancient land of Sumer. An interpretation of these figures is as follows:

1. In the upper left corner are seven spheres, representing the planetoids of the Sumer radiar that were once populated by humans. Their triangular configuration also symbolizes unity under the authority of the “Council of the Seven Lights.”

2. Below the seven spheres is a sword with its tip pointing downward. This is a sign that those of the Seven Lights desire that warfare be abolished and that the people of Sumer should live in peace.

3. The crescent moon to the right of the seven spheres indicates that the spheres, like the moon are located in the heavens.

4. The depiction of the human like figure on the left represents a being who came from the seven spheres. One of the wings on the back of this being points to the group of spheres, indicating the place he had flown (come) from.

5. This angelic being holds one arm and hand in a protective gesture over a small fish headed in his direction. In his other hand is a container in which he will place the living fish for transport.

6. The feet of this individual are large, and his leg shows no calf muscle. These features are in sharp contrast to the large calf muscle and small feet of the figure at the far right. This indicates that the angelic (winged) being came from a place where the force of gravity is not as strong as on the Earth. The sphere that partially covers one of his feet represents the world from which he came or once walked that caused the leg to physically develop that way. One foot placed before the other is the scribe's way of describing the act of walking.

7. The table (altar) below the fish indicates that the creature is a gift to the gods and was transported to them by a winged vehicle, which is center right and shown with the landing gear almost touching the table. The winged vehicle is, of course, the Sumerian scribe's way of depicting a spacecraft.

8. Below the spacecraft is shown a mature dolphin swimming toward the figure on the far right. The dolphin represents one of many types of animal life forms that were biologically conditioned by the gods to tolerate the Frequency Barrier and were reintroduced to the Earth after being deposited by a spacecraft in the planet's forests and oceans.

The fact that the inhabitants of the Earth might not see the reintroductions physically take place is suggested by the dolphin swimming from under the table.

9. The figure on the far right points with one hand to the spacecraft located directly under the sun, and holds a written list in his other hand. The sun's six rays represent six solar years, which was the future time when the Sumerians could expect the spacecraft's return to pick up the animal life forms on the list.

It is recommended that the reader obtain a copy of the ancient "Sumerian King's List." It tells a fascinating story of that time in history.

Pink Dolphins

There are 5 species of freshwater dolphins in the world. The Amazon River, dolphin which has a brain capacity that is 40% larger than that of a human, is considered to be the most intelligent of all dolphins. They are friendly and very sensitive. They have no natural predators, but were nearly hunted (poached) to extinction. Their meat was highly prized by restaurants in Lima, and Iquitos, Peru which is located about 150 miles up stream from the pink dolphin's habitat.

I met Ms. Roxanne Kremer in Phoenix, Arizona in 1993 while she was on a fund raising tour. She told me of her research studies that she had been conducting with the dwindling pink dolphin pod, which numbered about 15 at the time and were considered to be one of the most endangered species in the world.

Her time in the Amazon jungle had been very perilous in view of the threats that the dolphin poachers made upon her life, as well as those of her helpers.

Then her help came from the skies.

Nightly, illuminated craft landed on the river banks and projected blinding spotlights on the poachers, which frightened the poachers and they left. Over a period of 8 years the Pink Dolphin pod located in the Yarapa river (tributary of the Amazon) had increased to 45 in number.

Additional fact: A pink dolphin that had been brought to an aquarium in the U.S., situated itself with its head pointed down toward the bottom of the tank, until it died.

Sasquatch (Bigfoot), Yeti, and Skunk Ape?

From time to time sightings of large ape like creatures (covered with hair) are spotted in the northwestern part of the United States and lower Canada. These “creatures” are legendary and were given the name Sasquatch by the Native American Indians. The name means “Big foot,” and a few pictures that are usually suspected as being faked do appear on occasion, and they receive considerable public attention, such as the picture shown above.

Sightings of similar creatures are also reported from the Nepal region of India, which is the location of the Himalayan mountain range. The natives of this area call the creatures “Yeti” (also called the abdominal snowman). And from the swamps of Florida a foul smelling version of these ape like creatures has been seen, which is called the “Skunk Ape.”

Plaster casts do exist of large foot prints that are believed to have been left by the creatures. The fact that some of these casts consistently show a slightly shorter second toe than humans, does suggest the casts were taken of an actual foot print of the same type of creature.

A man considered to be one of the top experts in fingerprint and barefoot print identification, appeared in a recent television documentary and described his analysis of two different plaster casts of tracks that are believed to have been made by the creature that is called Bigfoot.

Although the Bigfoot casts were made 20 years apart at locations that were separated by about 700 miles, the tracks which were obviously made by two different individuals had similar patterns. The expert stated that in his mind he was sure that the tracks were made by a “primate” who’s tracks he had never seen before.

He pointed out that the pattern of a bare footprint made by a human is “swirled.” The patterns in a foot print made by an ape are “angled.” He also reported that he found that the patterns found in the foot prints he studied of the Bigfoot ran vertically along their outer edges.

Anthropologists fall into two categories where as far as Bigfoot is concerned. One type states that they do not believe that these creatures exist, and the second type says they do believe in their existence. It is interesting that the believers are beginning to out number the disbelievers, just as many of those that supported the theory of evolution are switching their allegiance from the Theory of Evolution to a belief in the idea that the universe was “created” and functions according to an “Intelligent Design.”

First of all, the sightings as well as the discovery of footprints left by these creatures, in every case takes place in extremely remote wilderness areas on the planet. Well equipped expeditions composed of expert trackers, set out to find these evasive creatures and always return to civilization without successfully catching even a glimpse of one.

The question is: Are these creatures real? The answer is: Yes.

Sasquatch, Yeti and the Skunk Ape are part of an extraterrestrial biological/Frequency Barrier experiment, as are other strange animals that are sighted for brief periods of time and then vanish.

In the case of the Sasquatch those that are spotted are usually pregnant females that have been deposited in the wilderness covertly by extraterrestrials. The purpose of this experiment is to determine if there are any remarkable biological changes in the fetus due to the fact that it developed within the changing Frequency Barrier. Before the Sasquatch child is born on Earth the expecting mother is picked up by the extraterrestrials and her offspring is thereafter observed and biologically evaluated off the Earth.

The subjects of the experiments are really genetic duplicates of humans that were once part of the reevolutionary chain, particularly of that line that became the Simians. The ETs are looking for the reason why this split took place and how and why the mutation occurred. Benign Ets hope that the cause of the split is never realized.

Another Look at the Golden Ages

The so called “Golden Ages” took place only during the re-evolution period. They began, peaked and slowly came to an end. The length of time it took for the period of devolvment to end and re-evolution to start can only be guessed at.

The fact that such things as machine screws were found in 400 million year anthracite coal deposits points to the fact that a fully functioning human culture lived at that time. The extraterrestrials emptied their human preserves sometime after 200 million years ago or as late as 2 million years ago. This depends on whether or not one accepts Dr. Leakey’s first or second dating for his fossil finds in the Oldavi Gorge. Then again Oldavi might have been the location of such a preserve, and Leakey’s human remains might be of those that died while being physically confined in that preserve (?).

Human foot prints found alongside foot prints of dinosaurs means that humans were experiencing re-evolution and free of the extraterrestrial preserves at least 65 million years ago (before the dinosaurs totally died out).

Six to ten Golden Ages lasting as long as 25 thousand years each (or less) are assumed to have happened. The total time that would have passed during these ages is approximately 250,000 years. How far apart these ages were from each other is not known. Nor is how mentally advanced the people of these ages were able to become (due to little or no affect from the Frequency Barrier). Therefore one could estimate that during the last 65 million years about 250,000 years were spent as Golden Ages and some 64.75 million years was spent under Frequency Barrier conditions (of various magnitudes).

Several things are known about the peoples of those Golden Ages. During some of those ages the cultures possessed atomic power and aircraft, but no spacecraft. In some cases their technology surpassed that of the present day. A number of these cultures reinstated the Frequency Barrier by using atomic weapons in warfare.

The extraterrestrial interest in nuclear bomb detonations, is certainly now better understood.

“He who troubles his own house, will inherit the wind.”

It is quite difficult to determine if things like machined objects or gold jewelry found in strata dated at hundreds of millions of years, were pre Frequency Barrier items or were crafted during a Golden Age.

Where as the age we live in began less than 20,000 years ago, one might ask if we are just experiencing another Golden Age?

The answer to this question is no. We are not just experiencing a Golden Age, and the reason that we know this will be presented further on in this writing.

The extraterrestrials have vigilantly kept an educated eye open for any signs that a Golden Age was beginning on the Earth. The type of things they watch out for will be explained further on in this writing. When they are sure such an age is beginning they attempt to help the people of the time by providing them with technical assistance. Even so, the extraterrestrial ability to physically perform face to face dealings with the people of the Earth were still dictated by how the frequency barrier actually affected them. It usually takes a considerable amount of time (well in to the age) before such physical contact becomes possible.

A case where wishful thinking caused the extraterrestrials to “jump the gun”, so to speak, occurred some 8,000 years ago in ancient Mesopotamia.

A question that has long baffled archeologists is: How did the ancient civilization of Sumer suddenly come into existence, possessing writing, mathematics, a system of weights and measures and the engineering abilities to build cities and canals for the purpose of irrigating crops? There are absolutely no signs of a gradual development of this ancient culture. One day it just appeared.

There is no room for any doubt that the extraterrestrials initiated that culture. The pictographic Sumerian seal shown earlier bears witness to the fact that the extraterrestrials enlisted the people of that culture to provide them with biological specimens in the form of animal life that they could study off the Earth. These arrangements were probably made between the extraterrestrials and an elite priesthood or royal leadership.

These extraterrestrial efforts continued for several millennia, up to the time of pre dynastic Egypt.

In these times the people of Egypt were hunter / gatherers that lived along the banks of the Nile river.

These primitives were probably amazed by the fact that there were towering pyramids and numerous stone buildings located throughout the land. Buildings that were constructed in a very distant past. They were probably just as amazed to see shining flying objects circle these monuments from time to time and then fly away.

In Part 3 of this writing the subject of the Tulli Papyrus was presented. The papyrus speaks of a UFO sighting that took place during the reign of Thutmoses 111 (who ruled from 1479 to 1425 B.C.). The Tulli papyrus also tells us that Thutmoses had no idea what the circles of fire actually were. Therefore, any contact that the extraterrestrials had with his ancestors took place so far in the past that all memory of that time had been lost.

But, evidence (in the form of artifacts) of extraterrestrial contact with the ancient Egyptians prior to and after 3200 B.C. (Establishment of the First Dynasty, or about 1,775 years before the reign of Thutmoses III) have survived.

Delta Winged Aircraft and Helicopters in Ancient Egypt

A wooden model of an airplane was found in an Egyptian tomb in 1898 at Saqqara, Egypt. The age of the tomb was said to be from the 2nd Dynasty (2770 - 2650 BC), About 1,291. years before Thutmoses III ruled Egypt.

The model wooden plane as shown above, and the wall carvings shown below are well known artifacts to those that research the field of Ufology.

The carvings below are found at Abydos in Egypt, on a construction called the “Wall of Eternity.” I have numbered the various features for the sake of explanation,

Feature 2 has been compared to a military tank. I suggest that it represents a “marine hovercraft.” It takes no imagination to see that features 3 and 4 represent two different types of aircraft.

I have saved feature 1 for last because I have something to add to the description of this obvious “helicopter.” In the late 1980’s this helicopter was constructed and flown successfully in Phoenix, Arizona.

I personally assisted in preparing a patent application that pertained to the unique functions of this craft, which was called the “Honcho.”

As said the Honcho had been successfully test flown but, after disagreements arose between those who paid for its development, the prototype disappeared, only to be discovered stripped down in a salvage yard in Northern Arizona in 2004.

The following is a description of how this aircraft was able to fly.

THE ABYDOS HONCHO

A: This feature is an air scoop. The incoming air is channeled to a chamber where it is heated (feature B).

B: In this chamber (called a phlegmun chamber) the air is both heated and put under pressure. The fuel used to heat the Abydos version is not known, but the air in the Honcho was heated by aviation fuel.

C: The rotor blades on both models were hollow and were turned rapidly by escaping air that jetted out of vents in the trailing edge of the rotor blades. The axle shaft on which the blades rotated was stationary (did not turn). The axle shaft also served as a conduit for getting the hot air from the chamber to the blades.

D: Tubular channels permitted hot air from the phlegmun chamber to vent as a counter action to the whirling rotor blades. Thus neither model required a tail rotor.

E: This open area permitted technicians access to the phlegmun chamber and also served as the female part of a cargo cassette that was inserted and removed quite easily.

There is a possibility that these aircraft were artifacts from a previous Golden Age that were discovered by the Ancient Egyptians. In this case they might not have known what they were or maybe they did, but were just unable to fly them.

After the patent on the Honcho was filed, I spent some time designing an attachment that would permit the Honcho to reach higher altitudes than helicopters of the time were able to reach. This system was called the High Altitude Lift Operation. (HALO). The system ionized air at altitudes where the air is thin. The ions were concentrated with magnetic lines of force produced by electromagnets embedded in the rotor blades. The streaming ions passing over the rotor blades provided additional lift. The static electricity normally produced by rotor blades was also made useful in the process.

The question of what happened to these ancient aircraft is not hard to answer. They were either well hidden (possibly in the ocean) with the intention of bringing them back into service at a future time, or the Extraterrestrials for some unknown reason took them back or simply destroyed them. More on this subject in a later writing.

There are several accounts of advanced cultures that went into obscurity after they met with a catastrophic disaster. Places with names such as Atlantis and Lemuria have been passed down to us from very ancient times. There is no reason to reiterate these stories.

The Vaimanika-sastra is a text from ancient India which tells of sophisticated air flight by human pilots. This account was written by Maharishi Bharadwaja in the 4th century BC (allegedly dictated while he was in a trance).

The text tells of aircraft called Vimanas that were possessed by both adversaries, in a very terrible war. The warring factions attacked each other in the air and also used weapons that meet the description of atomic bombs and missiles (Indra's Dart).

It is logical to assume that such a vast use of atomic weapons caused strata layers within the Earth to shift and reactivated the Frequency Barrier which brought that ancient Indian culture (Golden Age) to an end.

Earth Governments and the Extraterrestrial Visitors

During several Apollo Missions to the moon radio transmissions taking place between the Apollo spacecraft and Mission Control were claimed to have been over heard by private radio operators. One such claim states that the astronauts said that they were being followed by several alien spacecraft. Although there was a little excitement among the crew, they seemed really to be "quite laid back" about the matter.

One Apollo mission, after touching down on the moon is reported to have communicated that there were spacecraft parked around the rim of a crater. They also said that one of the craft was quite large. Mission Control responded with: Did you communicate with them? Again the astronauts handled the matter very calmly.

Astronaut John Blaha was the pilot of shuttle flights 29 and 33, and the commander of shuttle flights 43 and 58. During one of the flights he commanded a civilian radio operator recorded him telling Mission Control that an alien craft was below the shuttle and was following it. Again there was no sign of surprise in Blaha's voice.

At this point one might wonder if extraterrestrials are in contact with any of the governments that exist on Earth, and they are just not telling the rest of the world that this is happening?

The answer to this question is yes, in a very minor way. They have no treaties or official agreements with each other. Why? As far as the extraterrestrials are concerned there really isn't a need for one.

The open 9 ET radio messages to the world of 1995 proves that they have something to communicate to all the people of the planet and not just to a particular government.

Militarily there is no power on Earth that could compete with them. Hostile actions carried out by military forces in the forties and fifties were met with ET counterattacks that made it very clear that they were not wimps, and will shoot back if fired upon.

First of all, several governments (or divisions thereof), institutions and organizations are totally aware of the existence of the "Frequency Barrier." That is, they know everything said in these articles and more, is true.

The present course of action is to deny that UFOs are extraterrestrial spacecraft for as long as they possibly can, simply to preserve the credibility of the religious institutions and safeguard the world's economic system. Who wants panic or anarchy for the next thousand years or so?

The official position is simple: For all they know the Frequency Barrier could last for thousands of years into the future. They know that the Extraterrestrials are going to keep up their Frequency Barrier studies and there is really nothing that they can do about it. But, they do like the possibility that they might get their hands on some useful ET technology in the meantime.

The governments (in the know) are pleased with the circulation of “Little Green Men” stories and the nonsense of the fake (woo woo) channelers, false prophets, messiahs and “official representatives of the aliens,” which serves their cause very well, because these people have most of the world laughing.

The following statements were found in the United States Air Force Academy text book during the nineteen sixties .

According to the text book:

“If such beings (aliens) are visiting the Earth two questions arise: 1) why haven’t they attempted to contact us officially? and 2) why haven’t there been accidents that would have revealed their presence?”

“Why no contact? That question is very easy to answer in any of several ways: 1) We may be the object of intensive sociological and psychological study. In such studies you usually avoid disturbing the test subject’s environment.

2) “ You don’t contact a colony of ants .... and humans may seem that way to any alien. (variation: a zoo is fun to visit but you don’t contact the lizards).”

3) “ Such a contact may have already taken place secretly, and may have taken place on a different plane of awareness ... and we are not yet sensitive to communications on such a plane.”

“Not yet sensitive to communications on such a plane.”

It takes very little effort to see that the writer’s only purpose for writing the entire piece above, was to finalize it with this information.

The government knows that the Frequency Barrier is real.

Now you do.

Ephphratha: “Be thou open.”
